

Near Eastern Languages & Cultures

Program of Iranian Studies

With the Support of the Jahangir and Eleanor Amuzegar Chair in Iranian Studies

Whither Syria?

James L. Gelvin

Professor of Modern Middle Eastern History at UCLA

Wednesday, May 25, 2011

2:00 PM — 3:30 PM

NELC Department Seminar Room
389 Humanities Building

James L. Gelvin is professor of modern Middle Eastern history at UCLA. He is a graduate of Columbia University (A.B.), the School of International and Public Affairs at Columbia (M.I.A.), and Harvard University (Ph.D). He has taught at Boston College, Harvard University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the American University in Beirut. A specialist in the modern social and cultural history of the Arab East, he is author of Divided Loyalties: Nationalism and Mass Politics in Syria at the Close of Empire (University of California Press, 1998), The Modern Middle East: A History (Oxford University Press, 2004, 2007, 2011), The Israel-Palestine Conflict: One Hundred Years of War (Cambridge University Press, 2005, 2007), along with numerous articles and chapters in edited volumes. He is currently working on a book about the current uprisings in the Arab Middle East for Oxford University Press.